

device, wherein the chamber is configured to interchangeably receive the external device;

and

forming an opening associated with the chamber such that only the opening of the chamber is disposed on the outside of the display unit.

Copy
of
the
original
drawing